CLIMATE CHANGE AND RISK MANAGEMENT WITHIN CREDIT UNIONS

Date: Wednesday, January 4

Time: 12:00 - 1:00 PM (Saskatchewan time)

Where: on Zoom (free to attend)

Managing the risks associated with climate change has become an escalating priority for financial institutions globally. As the financial services industry engages in financial activities that span all sectors of the economy, it is particularly vulnerable to climate related risks. The changes in weather and climate are increasing the frequency and volatility of weather events and amplifying financial institutions' exposure to climate-related losses across their portfolios. To mitigate these risks and stabilize the health of the banking system, financial institutions must develop and implement long-term climate strategies and manage the financial risks associated with climate change. In this Co-op Conversation, Ritu Linfoot, Director of Risk Operations and Enterprise Risk Management at Vancity, will share Vancity's approach to climate change, which includes goals to achieve net zero carbon emissions by 2040, and assessing and mitigating climate risks the organization faces, as well as share some lessons learned.
